

Kenya s new energy needs to be equipped with energy storage

Overview

The Kenya Electricity Generating Company PLC (KenGen) has announced plans to implement a Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) as part of the Kenya Green and Resilient Expansion of Energy (GREEN) programme, funded by the World Bank. key driver for economic growth. The National Energy Policy 2025-2034 is therefore a tool in spearheading our country's vision of equitable energy transition, focusing on innovation, resilience, and sustainability driving green industrialization. The system, installed to power a modular data centre located at KenGen's headquarters, is meant to showcase how battery technology can play . With the geothermal-rich Rift Valley, world-class wind corridors in Marsabit and a solar belt that stretches across vast regions, the nation has made bold strides in renewable energy. The sector is now asking, will BESS be part of the solution?

1. Defining Regulatory Frameworks including . Kenya has put in place significant energy policies and strategies, and with strong institutions and ambitious targets, the country is well-positioned to reach its energy goals and continue its economic growth and development. As the largest economy in Eastern Africa and a regional leader in energy . The newly launched 1. 16 megawatt-hour (MWh) BESS was built to supply uninterrupted renewable power to KenGen's 52-kilowatt Modular Data Centre (MDC), which houses 356 U-spaces dedicated to supporting the company's expanding digital infrastructure.
